Let's save our ocean!

Today, I want to talk about a topic that is near and dear to my heart—environmental problems. (1)_____

_____, such as pollution, global warming and loss of biodiversity.

As a swimming lover, I am particularly concerned about the ocean. Undoubtedly, the main cause of marine pollution is destructive human activities. (2)

_____. What have human beings done to the ocean?

What can we do to save the ocean?

Nowadays, the ways that people treat our oceans are appalling. Different kinds of marine pollution are putting the ocean in great danger. (3)

_____. The soaring amount of marine waste found in the ocean, such as plastic bags, polystyrene boxes and metal containers, threaten the lives of marine animals.

You have written a diary entry about a trip to the zoo. You are now proofreading the diary entry. Cross out the mistakes and write the correct words on the lines on the right. Insert any missing words using a ^.

I went to the zoo with my family at the weekend. We joined a guided tour, and our guide remind us not to feed any of the animals at the zoo. Since the (1) _____ health of the animals is carefully maintained, it is important of them not to (2) be fed by visitors. It is really cool that there are so many different animals at (3) _____ the zoo. Firstly, we saw lions, the kings of the jungle. It is unbelieving that they sleep a lot! The guide tell us not to try to wake up the lions. Male lions (4) _____ often sleep 20 hours a day. How lazy they are! I think that it is selfish (5)_____ of them make the females do so much of the work! Next, we went to see (6) _____ the orangutan exhibit. The orangutan is the only type of great ape that are found outside of Africa. It is interesting to it spends most of its life high in the (7) _____ trees. Sadly, the orangutan is an endangered animal. They are often hunting (8) _____ (9) _____ and capturing by humans and sold as exotic pets. After that, we got (10) _____ to see my favourite animal, the giant panda. The giant panda are beautiful to look at and observe. The guide asks us not to use any flash photography, (11) _____ though, as it might scare the pandas. It is incredible that a panda eats about 30 kg of bamboo in a single day. That is about 30 per cent of its body weight! (12) The guide told us that giant pandas are protect by law. It is because they are under threat of extinction. Luckily, these laws have gradually helped the species thrive once again. We ended the day by watching (13) _____ dolphins. It is important remember that dolphins are not fish. They (14) _____ are mammals like us. It is necessary of them to come to the surface regularly for air. Sadly, dolphins are sometimes catch in nets by fishermen. (15) _____ The guide is advising us to protect dolphins by not eating tuna caught by (16) _____ commercial fishermen. I had a great time at the zoo and I learnt a lot about (17) _____ endangered animals. It was great that my parents to bring me there. I really want to do more to help animals now. It imperative to ensure that future (18)_____ generations and all the creatures get to enjoy the beauty of Mother Nature.
