Relative pronouns

You are chatting with your friend online. However, there is a problem with the connection and some of the words are not shown clearly. Complete the conversation with the correct relative pronouns.

John	: Hey, did you meet the new student today?
	There is a new student?
	: Yes, there is a new student (1) who/that is from Canada.
	Wow! That must be a new experience.
	: What do you mean?
	Well, Canada is a place (2) which/that is quite cold. He or she probably needs some time to adapt to the different environment in Hong Kong.
John	: That's true. I guess I don't really think about the weather that much though.
You:	Anyway, what is the new student like?
John	Apparently, she is gifted in a number of areas. She is an athlete (3) whose reputation precedes her. She is one of the top basketball players in her country. I hope she can help our school team, (4) who are in need of fresh blood. She is also an artist (5) whose paintings are sold online for huge sums. Furthermore, she is a student (6) whose grades are always excellent.
You:	Wow! Is she a student or a superhero?
John	: You sound like someone (7) who/that is jealous.
You:	Aren't you a little bit? Our school, (8) which is just a small one, is suddenly getting this rock star of a student.
John	: Our school may be small, but it is a school (9) which/that is always working hard to improve itself.
You:	Well, you've met her in person, right? What is she like?
John	: She is kind, but quite nervous about moving to a new city. She is someone (10) who/that is suffering from culture shock, I would say. Hey, I just had a thought (11) which/that I would like to share with you. You are someone (12) who/that speaks English really well. I'm sure the new student would love to meet a friend (13) whose spoken English is as good as yours.
You:	Please introduce me to her tomorrow then. Hopefully, we can form a friendship (14) which/that will last a lifetime.

Fashion Sense

Recently, I've started to learn about fashion and design in Home Economics class at (1) \underline{X} school. That's why I've been thinking about some smart ways to look more fashionable. Here are a few tips that I'd like to share with everyone.

First of all, you must always remember to dress for the occasion. What does that mean? It's simple. If you're going for (2) \underline{X} afternoon tea at (3) the Peninsula, you'd better look decent. For gentlemen, you should wear suit trousers, (4) a shirt and a blazer. For ladies, if you could pair your formal dress with (5) an accessory or two, like a necklace or earrings, it will be brilliant. On the other hand, if you're going for a hike up (6) the Dragon's Back, you should choose (7) an outfit that is sporty, protective and comfortable for moving around. You can shield yourself from (8) the sun and look stylish at the same time by wearing hiking sunglasses and (9) a boonie hat.

My second bit of advice is that you shouldn't try to look like (10) the models you see in (11) \underline{X} fashion magazines. That might seem a bit contradictory, but bear with me. When you're out in (12) \underline{X} Hong Kong, you'll see many people who're trying to copy (13) the style of others. Imagine yourself going out to the city centre by (14) \underline{X} MTR to meet your friends. You will probably find that everyone dresses up in a similar style.

So, how do you make yourself stand out from the crowd? Think outside the box. Try something new and creative. Soon, you will develop an eye for fashion and come up with something wholly unique and attractive.

You are writing an email of advice to your friend about pet care. Proofread your email. Underline the mistakes and write the correct words on the lines on the right. Insert any missing words or commas using a ^. Cross out any extra words or commas and put a cross (X) on the lines on the right.

Dear Tommy, Hey! I heard that your family has got ^ puppy? That's great! We have two lovely (1) a puppies in our house too, and they are my good companions. I know that you're a bit worried about taking care of your new family member, but let me give you some advice to help you out. First of all, about the breed of your dog. A Golden Retriever, which was (2) The originally bred in the Scotland, is a large-sized breed of dog. Since yours is (3) X the boy, it will eventually be over 30 kg in weight. They are called retrievers (4) a because they like to chase things and bring them back to their masters. So, he will love playing ball with you! Golden Retrievers have a thick coat, whose is good at repelling water. You need to brush their coat daily with a dog (5) which brush. It might seem like a chore, but it is the good way to bond with your pet. (6) a It is also quite important to keep them neat. Once, I was walking along ^ street, (7) the and I saw a dog who coat looked so messy as if it had never been brushed. It looked (8) whose so upset! The Golden Retriever is a type of dog, which is susceptible to different (9) X health issues. You should take your dog to the veterinary clinic for regular check-ups (10)a to ensure that he remains fit and healthy. Do you have the veterinarian that you (11) a normally go to? It is important to choose a veterinarian whose you can fully trust. (12) who Finally, make sure your dog gets plenty of exercise and doesn't overeat. Exercise, which can be as simple as a walk in the park ^ is really important for (13), [^] well-being of your dog. Furthermore, because they love food, Golden Retrievers (14) the are likely to get overweight. Always resist the temptation of sharing food with your dog when you are having the lunch or dinner. Even when it is wagging its tail and (15) X staring at you, never give the human food and make sure that you only feed him the (16) X amount recommended by your veterinarian. Now, I know I've given you a list of 'do's' and 'don'ts', ^ you can often refer to for a reminder. But, trust me, I think (17) which they will all come naturally to you if you love your new pet. And I'm sure you will! If you have any questions, you know I am someone whose is always here for you. (18) who Your friend, (Student's name)
