Text 1 Film synopsis

Twinsters

Year: 2015

Running time: 81 minutes

Genre: Documentary

- ① Picture this! You are just casually browsing through videos on YouTube. All of a sudden, you see someone who looks exactly like you. You are both even the same age and have the same haircut! The only difference is that the two of you live in completely different countries, speak entirely different languages, and have never seen each other before.

- ② This is exactly what happened to Anaïs Bordier in this uplifting documentary. Anaïs, a fashion designer based in London, was raised in France. Her parents adopted her from South Korea when she was a baby. One day, a friend sent Anaïs a link to a YouTube video starring a woman who looked weirdly like her! Anaïs discovered that her doppelgänger was an American actress named Samantha Futerman. Samantha shared her birthday and was even adopted from the same city, Busan, in South Korea! It seemed impossible that they were twins because her adoption papers did not state this. However, Anaïs had a strong gut feeling that they might be related somehow. She was feeling very anxious yet excited when she sent Samantha a Facebook message.

25 3 Samantha was just as astonished as Anaïs when she noticed their eerie resemblance. Curious, she friended Anaïs on Facebook and they began chatting. They immediately clicked and discovered that they were like two peas in a pod! They had very similar personalities and even had the same hairstyle, the same laugh and both hated carrots! All of their friends were startled by their resemblance. Therefore, the two decided to meet in person.

30 4 Upon their initial meeting in person in London, Anaïs and Samantha immediately felt at home with one another. Their similarities were so staggering that they could easily be the same person, which made the slight differences between them even more fascinating.

35 Samantha, for example, was more outgoing since she grew up with three older brothers. Anaïs was more introverted, as she was raised an only child.

5 Back in America, the girls decided to take a DNA test to settle the question on everyone's mind. The doctor
40 who performed the test warned the girls not to get their hopes up while they were waiting. After all, the chances were slim that a set of twins could be separated for 25 years, only to be reunited through a chance online connection. This was real life after all and not some
45 heart-warming Hollywood film. However, they did get their fairy-tale ending when the DNA results came back. They really were long-lost twins who had found each other through the magic of social media. The reunited twins have since spent a great deal of time together and
50 even visited their birthplace, proving that sometimes truth can be stranger than fiction!

Alison and her sister Tanya are very close even though they look very different and bear little (i) _____ (paragraph 3) to each other. This is because both of them were adopted, so they are not (ii) _____ (paragraph 2) by blood.

One day, Tanya happens to see a photo of a girl from the other side of the world that looks just like Alison. Tanya feels extremely (iii) _____ (paragraph 3), and cannot stop staring at the photo. The girl appears absolutely identical to Alison.

It is such a/an (iv) _____ (paragraph 3) situation! Tanya decides to contact the girl and finds that she is very shy, which is the complete opposite of the talkative Alison!

However, Tanya gets a/an (v) _____ (paragraph 2) that this girl might be Alison's twin and decides to tell Alison. It turns out she is right and the twins are (vi) _____ (paragraph 5)! Now Tanya has two sisters instead of one!
